BREED NOTES • HAVANA BROWN

HAVANA BROWN OUTCROSSING PROGRAM (effective 2/19)

A Havana Brown cat may be mated with an unregistered domestic shorthair cat (black or blue only), hereafter referred to as FO, or certain colors of Oriental (shorthair only, any color except: cinnamon, fawn, silver, or bicolor), or Siamese (chocolate point or seal point only). The resulting kittens of any color or pattern are known as the F1 generation. The mating of any F1 kitten to a Havana Brown produces a litter that is considered to be Havana Brown (0408-0409), provided the kitten meets the color standard for Havana Brown or if Lavender AOV (0498-0499). All other color or patterned kittens will remain registered as F1 and may be used for breeding as an F1.

CODES:

0414-0415 (F0) – For black or blue domestic shorthair or foundation cat (unknown or unregistered background) Breed Code 90.

0416-0417 (F1) For any color or patterned kittens from the breeding of a domestic (FO), a registered OSH or a Registered Siamese to a registered standard Havana Brown (0408 -0409), or for any color or patterned kitten as the result of a breeding of two Havana browns at any generation. Note: Lavender has an AOV status (0498-0499).

0408-0409 For brown kittens (only) from the breeding of a standard Havana Brown to an F1 or kittens from a Havana Brown to Havana Brown breeding. (All other colors or patterns of kittens may be registered as F1 and may be used for breeding). Lavender kittens would be registered AOV 0498-0499).
